Teach for America

Teach for America will place corps members for two years in 21 urban and rural regions across the United States. The overwhelming majority (95%) of students we serve are African-American and Latino. The achievement gap that exists between students who live in low-income areas and those who live in high-income areas disproportionately affects students of color. They are starting and staffing great schools; advising governors and legislators on education policy; serving as principals, administrators, and school board members; and marshalling the resources of major corporations and law firms to effect social change. www.teachforamerica.org

Peace Corps

The Peace Corps traces its roots and mission to 1960, when then-Senator John F. Kennedy challenged students at the University of Michigan to serve their country in the cause of peace by living and working in developing countries. From that inspiration grew an agency of the federal government devoted to world peace and friendship. Since that time, more than 170,000 Peace Corps Volunteers have been invited by 136 host countries to work on issues ranging from AIDS education, information technology, and environmental preservation. Peace Corps Volunteers continue to help countless individuals who want to build a better life for themselves, their children, and their communities. <http://www.peacecorps.gov/>
