Subject: POWER baseball seeking winter & summer interns!

Good afternoon and Happy Thursday!

This winter commemorates the inaugural season of the California Winter League (CWL) based out of Palm Springs, California at the Palm Springs Baseball Stadium. The CWL is a league that incorporates four highly competitive teams with the goal aimed at helping current and future professional players prepare for the upcoming spring and summer seasons. All the teams will be managed and coached by former Major League players and coaches.

For our 2010 winter season, we have two positions available for athletic trainer interns. The season lasts from January 24th- end of February, with games being played twice daily during the weekdays. The interns are paid a stipend of $500 a month and housing can be arranged with local host families for those who need it. This is a wonderful opportunity to live and work in the desert oasis of Palm Springs, California, where the daily temperature in January and February averages 70-80 degrees with not a snowflake in sight!

We are looking to fill this position within the next month, and are looking for applicants eager to work with professional players during our inaugural season of the CWL! All interested applicants should send their cover letters and resume to Jordin Hatcher, Director of Marketing and Promotions, at jhatcher@palmspringspowerbaseball.com by November 13, 2009.

If you know of anyone who may be interested in doing the internship with our summer league, Palm Springs Power Baseball, please have them contact our office as well. The deadline for those interested applicants is Friday, February 12, 2010.
