Whither History? Emerging Paradigms in the Study of History

This talk will examine some of the newest trends in historical writing, with a focus on shifts in the paradigms for practicing history that are in the process of being framed. It will also discuss some of the problematic aspects of these new historiographical agendas and their relationship to past concepts of history.

Tuesday, October 20, 2009

12:30-1:45 p.m.

203 John Munroe Hall

This workshop is free and open to the public.

Please come and bring your lunch!
