To honor and remember. Often, these twin sentiments are the primary motivation for giving. Memorial and Honorary Tributes are an ideal way to contribute to the University—to support the educational ambitions of thousands of young people while also paying tribute to an important person. We extend heartfelt thanks to those who make gifts during the 1997-1998 academic year in remembrance or recognition of others. These gifts provide a meaningful reminder of those who have made a difference in our lives.

Gifts from private foundations and organizations are particularly valuable because they provide targeted resources for important University initiatives. This past year, more than $8.8 million in contributions from foundation and organization pacesetters invigorated the UD community. We are grateful for the ongoing involvement of our friends in the foundation community. For more information, please contact Elizabeth Neary, director of corporate and foundation relations, at (302) 831-2104.

The Legacy Society recognizes and honors donors who have provided for the future support of the University under their estate and/or financial plans. By including the University in such plans, Legacy Society members make a unique investment in the University and in the lives of the many young men and women to follow, and provide an extra measure of strength for the University's future. We are privileged to honor our Legacy Society members. For additional information about the Legacy Society, please contact Paula Tilmon Armstrong, director of planned giving, telephone (302) 831-2104.

We salute our friends in the corporate community who, in total, contributed $6.3 million to the University in Fiscal Year 1997-98. In recent years, corporate standard bearers have made possible new facilities, including MBNA America Hall and the Allan P. Colburn Laboratory. The spirit of partnership between UD and our corporate counterparts has inspired scholarly pursuits, too. In the years to come, corporate involvement will continue to play an important role in the educational and research activity on campus. For more information, please contact Elizabeth Neary, director of corporate and foundation relations, telephone (302) 831-2104.
