

The University of Delaware Physical Therapy Department has achieved 100% membership in the American Physical Therapy Association. This designation means that all full-time faculty and clinical faculty are members of the only professional organization representing physical therapy. This designation indicates our complete and ongoing support of the APTA and its mission.