

Tenure-track assistant professor of Women's Studies at the University of Delaware

Appointment to begin 1 Sept. 2009. Ph.D. required; an advanced degree in Women's Studies preferred. Candidates should be prepared to offer introductory through upper-level courses in transnational feminisms and to focus on race, class, and sexualities in a global context. Teaching and research interests in feminist legal and/or environmental issues are desirable.

Please send: CV; three recommendations; writing sample (10-15pp); and a letter of application. The letter should describe teaching experience and philosophy, research, and how the candidate's work will contribute to the university's commitment to diversity as a core value. Deadline for receipt of all materials is 15 September 2008. Send materials to: Prof. Margaret Stetz, Women's Studies, 34 W. Delaware Avenue, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19716, USA.
