

Hello,

I am writing to welcome you to my fall archaeology tutorial. I would like each of you to do two things prior to the first class meeting on Monday, Sept. 12:

1) read the book "Skull Wars: Kennewick Man, Archaeology, and the Battle for Native American Identity" by David H. Thomas; I have ordered the book from both the UD Bookstore and the Delaware Book Exchange but have no idea when they will get the book in stock; you can get the book at your local library or bookstore or order it from Amazon.com; come to class on 9/12 having read the entire book and prepared to discuss it

2) also bring to class a list of 5 World Heritage archaeological sites and/or National Park Service archaeological sites that you would be interested in choosing for your semester research project; you can find these sites listed on the web; we will make the site selections in class; each student will be responsible for a different site

If you have any questions about these two assignments, don't hesitate to contact me.

Again, welcome to the class!

Jill Neitzel
