Acknowledgments

Many people throughout the state have generously contributed their time and talents to the success of the 1999 Community Needs Assessment. The Community Needs Assessment Research Panel provided valuable input on the development of our primary data collection instruments as well as critical suggestions on secondary data and existing needs assessments to review. We are grateful for their participation which significantly improved the quality of our findings. Research Panel members include: Celeste Anderson, Delaware Department of Health and Social Services, Charles Anderson, President, United Way of Delaware (Invited), Timothy Barnekov, Director, CCDFP, The Honorable Patricia Blevins, Senator, 7th Senatorial District, Lorraine de Meurisse, Vice President, Bankers Trust, The Honorable Joe Di Pinto, Representative, 4th Representative District, Andrew Hastings, President, Delaware Association of Nonprofit Agencies (DANA), Lynne Howard, Family Policy Advisor, Office of the Governor, William Kooser, Executive Director, St. Patrick's Center, Carl Nelson, Delaware Department of Services for Children, Youth and Their Families, Jan Rheingold, President, Family and Workplace Connection, Roland Ridgeway, Vice President, First USA Bank, Helen Stewart, Vice President, Chase Manhattan Bank, and John Tylee, Deputy Director, Renaissance Development Corporation (formerly Wilmington 2000).

Focus group facilitation and analysis was provided by Devona Williams, principal of Goeins-Williams Associates. Her work was made more challenging by the large number of people who turned out to participate in the four focus groups. Her clear thinking and firm grasp of the data brought order to an extremely complex undertaking.

At the College of Human Resources, Education and Public Policy, we would like to thank the staff of the Center for Applied Demography and Survey Research, particularly Rebecca Bedford and Barbara Sobkowiak for their advice and assistance in designing the household survey, constructing the telephone sample, and overseeing its implementation.

A number of Center for Community Development and Family Policy graduate students provided research assistance in tracking down, obtaining, and analyzing existing needs assessment reports and secondary data and in implementation and analysis of the focus group meetings and the household and service provider surveys. Two deserve special recognition, Erika Klar, for her creativity, diligence, and perseverance in creating and managing the existing reports data base, and Glen Ernst, who approached and carried out the difficult and complex task of preparing the service provider data for statistical analysis with curiosity, enthusiasm, and competence.

Special thanks go to all of the respondents to the household and service provider surveys and participants in the focus group meetings. We are grateful for their willingness to contribute their time, calculate agency data, and respond thoughtfully to our queries. This project would not have been possible without their participation.
