Adjunct Student Elementary Methods Field Instructor
The School of Education seeks a qualified educator to supervise junior level methods students for three weeks during the Spring 2018 semester, which begins on February 5, 2018. Students would be out in the field during the weeks of February 26th, April 19th, and April 30th. Candidates should have a Bachelor’s degree in education, master’s degree is preferred, have a minimum of three years experience in an elementary school, be knowledgeable about current best practices in ESL education, and have a teaching certificate in ESL education. Although this adjunct position is just for the spring semester, possibilities exist for a successful candidate to supervise student teachers in future semesters. Adjunct field instructors are paid per student.

Responsibilities include supervising students in the field, providing written feedback after observations, conferencing with student teachers following observations, orienting clinical educators, creating improvement plans if appropriate, writing mid-term and final evaluations, and participating in orientation.
