

Finding Funding Opportunities

For one stop shopping – so to speak – in order to get information daily on all grant postings for all agencies, including but not limited to NSF, NIH, IES, etc., you should sign up to receive notifications of new grant opportunity postings and updates on Grants.gov. You do not need to be a registered user of Grants.gov to sign-up for this service. You can subscribe to receive All Grant Notices, Notices based on Advanced Criteria and/or Notices based on Funding Opportunity Number and so on.

http://www07.grants.gov/applicants/email_subscription.jsp

If you are looking to sign up for a specific agency, NSF provides a National Science Foundation Update for subscriptions and you set your own preferences.

Go to <http://www.nsf.gov/index.jsp> and on the left side of the screen near the top is a icon to Get NSF updates by email. Click on that link and choose the options you prefer.

NIH - National Institutes of Health has several subdivisions that offer several subdivisions and program listings. Click on the Newsletters, Page Updates and Bulletins link for a full listing.

<http://www.nih.gov/Subscriptions.htm>

U.S. Department of Education <http://www.ed.gov/news/newsletters/index.html>

IES (Institute of Education Sciences) a division of the U.S. Dept of Education

<http://ies.ed.gov/newsflash/>

Community of Science will allow you to set your own profile <http://www.cos.com/>

Morris Library provides training on COS profile setting. Visit

<http://www2.lib.udel.edu/usered/workshops/current.htm> for various workshop training session schedules.

<http://www.hhs.gov/grantsnet/>

GrantsNet is an Internet application tool created by the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) Office of Grants Management and Policy (OGMP) for finding and exchanging information about HHS and other federal grant programs. In addition to an introduction to HHS grants, the site provides links to funding opportunities, information on the application process, and other useful grant-related resources.

Federal Register Announcement's Via the Grantsmanship Center

<http://www.tgci.com/funding.shtml>

Many nonprofit fundraisers claim the daily federal register announcements via the Grantsmanship Center's Home Page are the easiest to use since the Grantsmanship Center only provides grant listings. To access information about federal funding, click on the federal button. Note: The Grantsmanship Center now requires free registration to access this database.

Office of Personnel Management

e-Scholar

<http://www.studentjobs.gov/e-scholar.asp>

The e-Scholar website was unveiled in April 2003 by the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM). It provides information about hundreds of federally-funded education scholarships, fellowships, grants, internships, and cooperative programs valued at more than $400 million. The site contains information for both students - from high school students through doctoral students - and career professionals.

University of Delaware Research Office

<http://www.udel.edu/research/preparing/funding.html>

The UD Research Office website includes internal and external funding opportunity listings as well as a Researchers Toolbox to assist with all of pertinent information needed to submit a successful research proposal .

Some other miscellaneous foundation websites to visit:

<http://foundationcenter.org/>

<http://www.wtgrantfoundation.org/>

<http://www.fcd-us.org/grantmaking/>

<http://www.fordfound.org/grants>

<http://www.spencer.org/>