

Ben Aaron

Words can't express what an awesome experience the MALS program has been! Everyone I've met seems to get so much out of it. Each class is filled with students who genuinely want to learn and faculty who are truly passionate about the material they're presenting.

I'm one of the younger students in the MALS program, having completed high school in 2004 and the University of Delaware in 2008, graduating Summa Cum Laude with a Dean's Scholar Degree in Anthropology. I started taking a few MALS courses during the senior year of my undergrad, and I've been enjoying every minute of it. Now I'm already planning my creative "synthesis" project which will most likely be a documentary film.

Professionally I am a songwriter and filmmaker, and the MALS program never fails to spark creativity! In fact, I recently produced a short film of MALS students sharing their experiences with the program. Be sure to check it out right here on the website!