

Frank Dunigan

I qualified for the "Master of Arts in Liberal Studies" degree in January, 2008 after several years of stimulating idea exploration, writing and inter-active discussion with fine University of Delaware professors and fellow students. My prior education, which included a B.S. in Industrial Engineering from Lehigh University, and an MBA from Boston University, did not give me much time to explore the Arts. I realized that the University of Delaware gave me an opportunity to learn something of the Arts, and keep active by being with a great group of people. I feel very fortunate to have had a chance to add this University of Delaware experience to my prior background of being; a U.S. Navy pilot in the Pacific in World War II, with a total of 22 years in the Naval Reserve, work as a management consultant, general management in a smaller company, as a Certified Financial Planner in my own business, and in large company computer systems management. My wife, Claire, and I have two children and three grandsons. It has all been a great adventure.
