AGRICULTURE & NATURAL RESOURCES

Agriculture in Delaware generates more than $1 billion of cash receipts from 2,300 farms on 530,000 acres. Cooperative Extension supports this vital component of the state economy through education, research, and outreach. Farmers, homeowners, food processors, agri-business, seed and biotechnology companies, power companies, feed suppliers, garden centers, nursery and sod producers all utilize Extension programs.

WELCOME TO UD COOPERATIVE EXTENSION

In 1881 the University of Delaware (UD) College of Agriculture and Natural Resources was established as the state's Land-Grant college with a mission consisting of three elements: teaching, research and "extension".

Cooperative Extension fulfills the third part of this mission: bringing knowledge to the people of Delaware. Today, UD Cooperative Extension offers university knowledge, research and resources – just for you! You have questions. We have expert answers.

From nutrition classes and Master Gardener courses to 4-H youth clubs and programs that support local agriculture – UD Cooperative Extension has something for everyone.
