PROFESSIONAL PREPARATION

1998-2000	Postdoctoral Researcher, Harvard University
1998	Ph.D. Earth Sciences, University of California, Santa Cruz
1993	M. S. Geology, University of California, Davis
1991	B. S. Geology University of California, Davis

APPOINTMENTS

2013 - present	Professor, University of Delaware
2009 - present	Associate Director of the Oceanography Program
2006 - 2013	Associate Professor, University of Delaware
2000 - 2006	Assistant Professor, University of Delaware

HONORS AND AWARDS

2006/07	JOI/USSAC Distinguished Lecturer
2004	AGU Editor's citation for excellence in refereeing
1998	NSF Earth Sciences postdoctoral research fellowship
1998	Dissertation Year Fellowship, Univ. of Calif. Santa Cruz
1996	JOI/USSAC Fellowship
1996	Elected to Sigma Xi
1991/1990	Edward Jackson Scholarship, Univ. of Calif., Davis

PROFESSIONAL MEMBERSHIPS

American Geophysical Union
Geological Society of America
Sigma Xi

To the Public

2000-ongoing: Coast Day participant with hands-on display of microfossils (except in years 2011; 2014, 2015, 2016)

2008-2009

I participated in the “What in the World?” program of the Delaware Business, Industry, and Education Alliance. The program is to expose students to different careers by bringing in an object and explaining how it relates to the work. I talked to students about how we study past climate change bringing a microscope and sediment samples. I gave a total of three presentation at H. O. Brittingham Elementary School (December 2007), Cape Henlopen High School (February 7, 2008), and Mariner Middle School (May 2008).
