School of Education – Elementary Teacher Education Program
Supplemental Professional Position (Part-time)

Student Teacher Field Instructor – Elementary Education

The School of Education seeks a qualified educator to provide field instruction for 8-12 teacher candidates during their elementary student teaching experience for the Spring 2019 semester, which begins on February 11, 2019 and ends on May 16th, 2019.

Candidates should have a master’s degree or equivalent in education, have a minimum of three years of experience in elementary education, be knowledgeable about current best practices in elementary education, and have a teaching certificate in elementary education (additional areas of certification are highly desirable). Although this supplemental professional position is for the spring semester, possibilities exist for a successful candidate to instruct teacher candidates in future semesters. Supplemental professional field instructors are paid per teacher candidate along with travel expenses.

Responsibilities include providing field instruction for candidates in the field, providing written feedback after observations, conferencing with teacher candidates following observations, orienting clinical educators, creating improvement plans if appropriate, writing mid-term and final evaluations, participating in and/or conducting teacher candidates’ orientation, attending professional development meetings and completing field instructor orientation prior to the start of the semester.
