Participants in the State Employees’ Pension Plan (SEPP) are subject to the age and service criteria requirements of the SEPP, through which they receive their monthly pension and health insurance coverage in retirement. Employees who also meet the University's retirement eligibility will have access to additional University retiree benefits, including retiree-paid University group life insurance, educational benefits, University ID card (library and gym access), Wellness Dollars and parking privileges.

Questions About Rule of 75

Does this change affect me if I was already eligible to retire under the previous retirement criteria?

• No, because you were already eligible, you remain eligible to retire.

If the State Employee Pension Plan (SEPP) is my retirement plan, does the Rule of 75 affect my retirement eligibility?

• The SEPP retirement criteria has not changed. Rule of 75 is only for UD staff enrolled in the TIAA/403b retirement plan as their retirement plan. There are UD retiree benefits that staff with pension as their retirement plan can be eligible for if they ALSO qualify for Rule of 75.

How can I tell what retirement plan I am enrolled in?

• Exempt positions usually have the TIAA/403b retirement plan and non-exempt positions usually have the SEPP retirement plan. If you are unsure, you can view your pay stub in web views. Staff members enrolled in the SEPP will see a deduction for the State Pension Plan in the before-tax deduction area of their pay stub and under employer paid benefits area. See Understanding your pay stub.
Ready to Retire?

• It is important to plan for retirement, see the TIAA website to schedule a meeting or to access webinars and online resources.

• For employees in the TIAA/403b Retirement Plan, 3-4 months prior notice is requested to process a retirement.

• For employees in the SEPP Retirement Plan, 4-5 months prior notice is requested to process a retirement.

• If you or your dependent are over age 65 at time of retirement, the minimum amount of notice to process a retirement is 3 months.

• Once a retirement date is determined, contact hrhelp@udel.edu to schedule an appointment.
