

Together, Securian Financial and BenefitBump support growing families

Services through BenefitBump are available with Securian Financial's hospital indemnity product and can also be expanded to the critical illness product. Learn how BenefitBump can help guide employees through the family-building process and help working parents feel valued, included, and fulfilled at work.

What is BenefitBump?

BenefitBump is a concierge benefit navigation service that helps growing families build a plan for balancing work and life, providing the experience families want and need. The program connects participants with their available employee benefits, time-off programs, and childcare resources. It also assists with return-to-work planning and logistics. The service utilizes a human-to-human support model, where master's-level emotional health professionals serve as trusted guides, offering compassionate, expert support through each stage of the growing family journey.

These Care Navigators help guide the entire family through their journey – designed for all paths to parenthood – and assist in managing the stress and mental fatigue that often accompany a growing family.

How do the two plans work together?

BenefitBump guides employees enrolled in Securian's hospital indemnity plan:

- Participants have access to educational content and tools that help make their family-building journey less stressful.
- Families can join expert-led peer support programs and educational events across a range of topics important to birthing parents, new parents, and spouses/partners.
- Provides assistance with navigating leave programs, educating participants on various pay replacement and job protection programs available in their state and from their employer.
- The team of experts are passionate about growing family well-being and benefits navigation to provide holistic, personalized, client-customized, and science-backed support.

BenefitBump supports employees enrolled in Securian's critical illness plan with expert guidance and compassionate care throughout their family-building journey:

- The team of experts assists families navigating infertility diagnoses and supports those whose children are born with or develop serious medical conditions.
- Participants have access to content and tools that help make their family-building journey less stressful, including help finding discounts, grants, or loans for fertility treatment not covered by medical insurance.
- Families can join expert-led peer support programs and educational events focused on key topics for growing families, new parents, and partners.
- BenefitBump helps participants understand and coordinate the leave benefits available through their employer and state programs, reduce stress, and maximize support during time away from work.
